REV. DR. C. B. KING IN BACCALAUREATE

Pastor of Christ Lutheran Church Draws Inspirational Lessons For Young And Old At High School Auditorium Last Night

THEY ARE WELL ATTENDED

The Doctor Spoke On "Our Youth — The Greatest Asset of the Nation." And His Text Was "Run And Speak to the Young"

The High School auditorium was filled last night at the baccalaureate services of the Charleroi High School graduates, and the program, musical and literary, was commendable The feature was the baccalaureate sermon, or address, given by the Rev. Dr C. B. King, pastor of Christ Lutheran church, and of which we append a synopsis of its salient features:

A brief sketch of the Baccalaureate sermon as delivered by Dr. C. B. King, pastor of Christ Lutheran church of Charleroi.

The Doctor spoke on "Our Youth, The Greatest Asset of the Nation." His text was: Run and Speak to the Young"—Zack. 2:4.

While he showed to whom the words were first spoken and to whom they have been handed down—yet coordinating these agencies they are represented by the Home; the Public School; The Christian Church, These said he are a greater safeguard to our country, than a standing army. There are no agencies like these, for the pronouncing of a full fledged and whole-hearted citizenship. He emphasized the necessity of speaking to the young, because they are the formation period of life. The time when they are planning for the future. Hence the necessity of opportune advice, as to the kind of foundation, they must lay, for adequate future construction

He further emphasized, speaking to and directing the young because the youth of today are the citizens of tomorrow. Some one has said that the man is made between the ages of 4 and 6 years. Another has said "If I am to rear the right type of citizens, I must begin with the grandparents" The question was then asked. "Why run and speak to them?"

First: Because of the brevity of life, youth and age are the sunrise and sunset of life's day The longer their preparation is delayed, the less time will they have for Service. So do not detain them. Their preparation being both extensive and intensive, they have no time to waste. Every child is born with at least three rights; The right to be supported. The right to be protected. The right to be educated. What is the right of the child is the duty of the parent. If the parent fails, then the state must see that the child's rights are realized. This the state does, not as charity, but as a matter of safety, to self preservation.

The state therefore declares that every child must receive at least a common school education It must be cared for physically intellectually and religiously. Our public school system is carefully looking after all the details concerning the child's physical welfare. For its intellectual training, she has 14,000 High schools besides hundreds of thousands of grade schools

Pennsylvania alone has 12,000 grade schools and 45,000 teachers. She has 300 Normal schools. 675 Industrial; 600 Commercial and 270 schools for the blind, deaf and dumb. Saying nothing of the colleges, museums and public libraries, all free to those who are in search of knowledge.

The state spends for all educational purposes, one billion dollars, annually in the United States. $650,000,000 are spent for grade schools. $100,000,000 for High schools and $20,000,000 for Normal schools Three-fifths of the amount for grade schools are expended in town and

Pirates Beat Brooklyn Yesterday Though Brooklyn Outhits Them

The Pirates broke their losing streak when they won a hard-fought 11-inning combat from the Dodgers yesterday afternoon by a score of 5 to 2. A crowd of about 28,000 fans turned out to witness the game. Every seat in the grandstand was occupied long before the contest started and the late comers were sent to the emergency seats in left center field The open stands were completely filled and hundreds of other spectators had to find standing room behind the grandstand.

The game was a pitchers' battle between Lee Meadows and Dutch Ruether and in the eleventh Ruether weakened and when he lost his effectiveness his infield, which had made brilliant plays in previous innings, wobbled.

Until the eleventh Ruether allowed only three hits and his fatal inning three more blows were struck by the Buccos. Meadows was hit more frequently than his rival, but in the pinches he was invincible, and in the ninth the Dodgers had a chance to win when they filled the bases with only one out but Meadows remained cool and the hit needed to win the hard fought game was not made

THE POWER OF A PROTESTANT CHURCH

New York, May 26—The power of the Protestant Episcopal church has been matched against the love of one of its rectors for a woman and has caused breaking of an engagement to marry.

The rector is Dr. Percy Stickney Grant, of the Church of the Ascension, and the woman Mrs. Rita De Costa Lydig. Dr. Grant is one of the most widely known preachers in [illegible] famous society beauty.

The marriage was forbidden by Bishop W. T. Manning of the diocese of New York and this was the cause of the breaking of the engagement. Mrs. Lydig, who has been twice divorced, made known the decision in a brief statement saying:

"Mrs. Lydig and Dr. Percy Stickney Grant announce the breaking of their engagement owing to Bishop Manning's refusal to give his consent to a marriage in the Protestant Episcopal church."

First announcement of the engagemet was made in August, 1921, when the rector was 61 and his fiance 42. Bishop Manning immediately announced he would not consent to the marriage by a Protestat Episcopal clergyman.

Mrs. Lydig's first husband was W. E. D. Stokes, who subsequently married Helen Elwood and became involved in the divorce case which has dragged in the courts for years, and her second, Major Philip Lydig. It was these marriages that led to the bishop's refusal to consent to her union with Dr. Grant. His refusal was based on canon 42 of the church which forbids marriage of divorced persons where their previous mates are still living.

Neither Dr. Grant nor Mrs. Lydig would comment on the announcement today.

Dr. Grant is a pronounced Liberal and has clashed with Bishop Manning, a strict conservative, many times.

POPPY DAY YIELDS VERY BIG RETURNS

Despite the rainy weather that prevailed Saturday, "Poppy Day" in Charleroi proved a decided success and the 8,000 poppies in charge of the American Legion Auxiliary Unit, No. 22, were all distributed with fine returns. The local auxiliary's territory included Roscoe, Lock No. 4, Centerville, Beallsville, Speers, Bentleyville and Allenport. This morning reports had only been received from Roscoe, Lock No. 4, Centerville and Charleroi, and the proceeds collected from these boroughs amounted to $688.44—Charleroi, $588.64, Centerville, $10.13; Roscoe, $38.91 and Lock No. 4, $50.76. Further reports will be published in tomorrow's issue of the Mail.

The proceeds of Poppy Day is to be used for welfare work among disabled soldiers. Thirty per cent of the amount taken in will go towards the state work, 10 per cent towards the national welfare work, and the remainder, 60 per cent will be used only for local assistance to soldiers. The Auxiliary will have charge of the money.

Both the members of the American Legion and the Auxiliary wish to thank all those who assisted in helping the good cause along.

MAJOR MARTIN RETURNS YESTERDAY

Bellingham, Wash., May 26. —Major Frederick L. Martin, who returned to home shores yesterday after being the principal in one of the most dramatic episodes of American air history, was preparing to go to Washington today. He will probably direct the paths of the three American round-the-world pilots from the copital.

Cheered by thousands who gathered at the Pacific American canneries, Major Martin said Providence directed the destinies of himself and his aide, Sergeant Alva Harvey or they would have perished after landing on the Alaskan waste lands.

"My greatest motive was to return to my wife and son," Martin said. "Harvey struggled to save himself for his mother's sake."

NEW YORK POLICE LOOKING FOR HOLDUP MEN

New York, May 26. — Police are looking for eight holdup men, [illegible] whom wore a patrolman's uniform, who Sunday held up two employes of a United Cigar Stores warehouse and took $250,000 in merchandise.

The men entered the eight-story building, held up and bound the two watchmen and escaped in four huge trucks belonging to the company. The trucks were filled with fancy tobaccos. Later two of the trucks were found.

Device Calms Waves

Forty-Horse Team With One Driver an Unasual Attraction Of Calgary's Spectacular, Wild West "Stampede" in July

Calgary's fourth "Stampede," a frontier frolic running the gamut from the wild west and pioneer past down to the progressive present will break loose for a whole week July 7 with "Slim" Morehouse and his 40-horse team in the lead kicking up the dust of the Alberta prairies. "Slim" has driven 40 horses and 9 wagons loaded with 1,200 bushels of wheat 70 miles from Vulcan to Calgary, piloting them onto the loading platform and unloading without unhitching, and he promises to show the visiting throng how it is done every day during "Stampede" week. When anyone asks Slim how he tells the lead team where to go next, he winks one eye and whispers, "Radio; but don't gi'me away."

This will be but one feature of Calgary's big show given under the patronage of the Prince of Wales, who has a ranch near Calgary, and Baron Byng, of Vimy, Governor General of Canada. As usual Guy Weadick will direct the sports of the cowboys, cowgirls and Indians, and Pete Vandermere, Canadian champion bucking horse rider, who won the silver horse given by the Prince of Wales last year, will defend his title and endeavor to capture the trophy a second time. Hundreds of Indians will pitch their tepees in Victoria Park and squaws and bucks will race for prizes. The Royal Canadian Mounted Police—the famous "Mounties"—will display their horsemanship. Round-up outfits will serve real buffalo meat from their chuck-wagons. Cowboys and girls will pit their skill against outlaw broncbos in the bucking contests and wild horse races, and the wild cow milking competition will furnish comedy aplenty. In this event one cowboy has to rope his wild cow, then his partner milks into a pop bottle—if bossy forgets the prairie slogan, "Hook 'im cow."

In 1923 more than 138,000 visitors saw Calgary's "Stampede," arriving by train, automobile, prairie schooner and even by aeroplane. There is a free and well equipped camp ground for motorists, and but 80 miles to the west are the towering Canadian Pacific Rockies easily reached by train and automobile. Banff and Lake Louise, beauty spots in the mountains are both reached by the Banff-Lake Windermere Highway, one of the finest motor roads in the world.

THE OLDEST SEA PATH.

The successful flight of American army airmen over 840 miles of the Pacific ocean, from the tip of the Alaskan peninsula to one of the outmost islands of Japan, calls to mind the discovery, or discoveries, of America. The Scandinavians have long claimed that their early explorers landed on the American continent centuries before the time of Columbus. And now it seems that Ireland claims to have shipped the voyagers who first set foot on our continent. But there are many reasons for the belief that the very first discoverers of America came, not from Europe, but from Asia, crossing, not the Atlantic, but the narrower parts of the Pacific.

Certain Indian tribes of the west coast of British America indicate Asiatic origin not only in their lighter color and physical features, but in their Mongol-like traditions and legends. The frailest boats of the earliest period could have carried men across the narrow stretch of water known as Bering Strait which separates the continent of Asia less than a hundred miles from Alaska, and what is more probable than that venturesome voyagers from the former reached the Alaskan coast in a past so far back as to be dim indeed? There is every reason to believe that the new explorers of the air crossed an expanse of the Pacific at no great distance from the route naturally chosen by ancient explorers of the sea when they forced their frail barks across Bering Strait and thus became the very first discoverers of America.

So Realistic

After the young thing at the party had concluded her second encore the old lady leaned toward her and said: "Thank you so much for your songs, my dear. They took me back to childhood days on my father's farm. There were times, when you sang, that I could shut my eyes and fairly hear the old front gate creaking in the wind."

Eyes of Flesh Eaters

The eyes of flesh-eating creatures are closer together than those of vegetarians. This is said to be due to the habit which the former have of fixing their gaze on their victims before springing. Human eyes are closer together than those of any other creature that eats flesh.

High Polish for Dishes

A high polish may be given to cut-glass dishes, decanters, etc., by sprinkling with warmed sawdust directly after washing and drying in the usual way. A very soft chamois leather must give the final polish, and this should be kept free from dust and for the one purpose only.

Dairymen of Jutland Find Co-operation Pays

Randers is a city of 27,000 inhabitants situated in the east central part of Jutland, writes E. F. Frazier in the Southern Workman. The co-operative dairy located there is an excellent example of how producers and consumers can meet in co-operative enterprises.

This dairy was established in 1918. At present it receives about 11,000,000 pounds of milk from 400 members living within a radius of between six and seven miles of the city. Each member pays an entrance fee of $16 per cow. The society owns 12 retail stores in the city and supplies 12 besides its own. Besides the annual dividend from the surplus each member receives three-fifths of a cent more per kilogram (2.2 pounds) than is offered by the privately owned dairies. The dairy supplies 65 per cent of the city's consumption, besides exporting 2,000 pounds of cream and 8,000 pounds of butter daily to be sold in its stores in England. In 1922 the society was able to pay its members a dividend of 17 cents on each 100 pounds of milk brought to the dairy.

By such an organization of production the smallest producer is afforded the same advantages as the largest and all consumers are guaranteed a standard product.

Elephants Increasing

The elephant is a very useful animal, both for draft purposes and for ivory. A few years ago 70,000 were slaughtered annually for their tusks so that it seemed as though there was a good chance of the big animals becoming extinct. Wise laws, however, have checked the destruction so that the number is increasing. The war gave the elephants their chance and the British authorities in East Africa have also protected them. South of Zambesi the elephant is virtually extinct and the Cape market for ivory has ceased to exist. At present Mozambique is the center of the ivory trade. Oddly enough the Portuguese, through whose hands it comes, send nearly all the ivory across to Bombay, where it is sorted and cut and dispatched to the European markets. The world's supply of real elephant ivory is now about 250 tons a year.—Scientific American.

Nine Million Persons Daily Ride in City's Elevators

More than 9,000,000 passengers daily, it is estimated, are carried by the elevators in New York City. This number exceeds the number of riders on the street railways, subways, and electric lines, it is said. In many large office buildings traffic rules and schedules are observed almost as scrupulously as those of large railroads, in order that adequate service may be rendered.

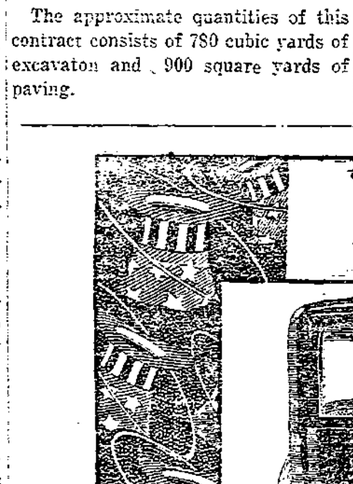
Kink for Window Washers

When washing windows the surplus water has an annoying tendency to run down the handle of the cleaner and into the sleeves or onto the clothing of the worker. This trouble may be eliminated by placing a small rubber disk on the handle, about a foot from the end, as shown in the illustration. The water will then run down only to the disk and there it will drip off.

The disk should be about 4 in. in diameter and should be cut from soft rubber, such as a piece of inner tube. A hole slightly smaller than the thickness of the handle is cut in the center of the disk so that it will fit the handle snugly when slipped into place.



Ship Is Sent by Parcel Post for Use in Africa

Shipbuilding has been reduced to a science so precise that it is now possible to construct vessels in such a manner that they may be taken to pieces, the parts shipped, and finally reassembled into a seaworthy craft at the destination. Each part is numbered and ticketed, and full instructions accompany it, a vital necessity, as the engineer is often compelled to make use of native labor, which always must be under his eye if he is to secure satisfactory results. The steamship "William MacKinnon," the first to be launched on Lake Nyanza, Central Africa, reached Mombasa by parcel post from England. Then the parts were transported through 500 miles of jungle to the lake, on the heads of 5,000 Kaffir porters. The boilers were dragged by oxen.

Sparrows Defy Gas "Attack" in War on Bird Pests

Resisting the fumes of mustard gas, and other deadly chemicals in quantities that would have proved fatal to a human being, English sparrows and domestic pigeons survived gas "attacks" in recent tests conducted by the government to find a way to rid the country of various bird pests. The subjects were placed in tight compartments, so arranged that the observers could watch their actions. The gas was administered in varying quantities. Amounts that would have killed a soldier caused the specimens to evince little agitation, and they recovered when taken into fresh air. In all, six varieties of gas were tried but without the desired effect. The experiments emphasized the difficulties encountered in ridding the country of the English sparrow in particular.

Cleaning the Coffee Percolator

Coffee percolators occasionally become clogged and all efforts to open up the fine holes by scrubbing and washing are usually futile. A good method of doing the work is to hold the percolator in a gas flame for a few minutes and then tap it lightly; this will open all the holes at once. Obviously, this is much better than attempting to prick the holes open with a needle.

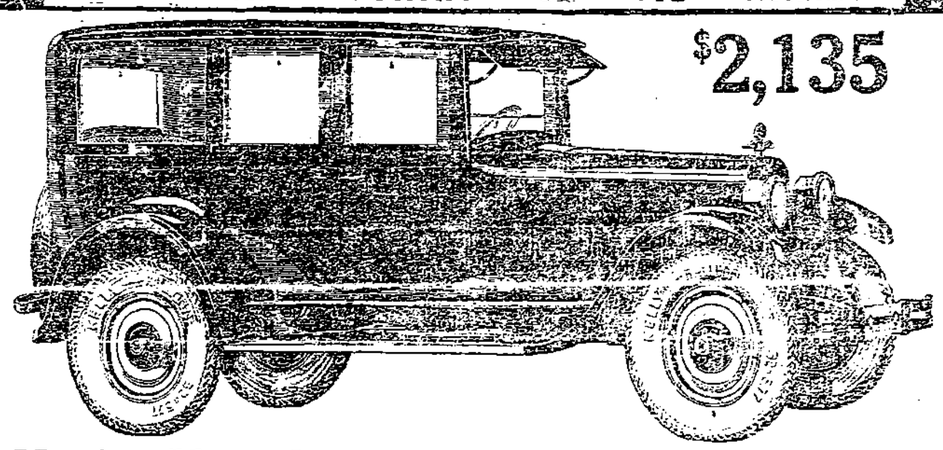
Rickenbacker
A · CAR · WORTHY · OF · ITS · NAME



Yes!—You Can Now Have Balloon Tires on a Rickenbacker Six

And these are true balloons—not merely "balloon type."

Not only full size—but liberal oversize for a car of this weight.

—a size that has, however, been established as standard by the largest makers and which can therefore be obtained anywhere in the world.

Early standard sizes (31" x 5¼") either reduced road clearance dangerously or the oversize (32" x 6.20") resulted in excessive periphery weight.

We insisted on a 22 inch wheel as a base, and on that we mounted a 5.77 Balloon.

This gives you a 34¼" x 5.77" tire.

Fits into wheel housing so as to make an harmonious ensemble.

Not crowded in, because wheel housing was designed for balloon tires.

Rickenbacker road clearance, always liberal, has been slightly increased to take care of "Deflected road clearance"—as when front wheels strike an obstruction, or at speed, encounter a steep grade.

Rickenbacker was first to advocate (publicly and fearlessly) Balloon Tires.

Called them "Doughnut Tires" then—term "Balloon" had not yet been coined!

But, until now, we could not obtain Balloons of proper major and minor diameters.

In this light, lithe, Rickenbacker Six, with 20 pounds of air in these balloons, you will enjoy a ride such as you never knew before. More like flying.

And still this remains the easiest car in the world to steer.

Because, as usual, Rickenbacker looking ahead, saw and anticipated the coming of the Balloon Tire.

So steering gear was re-designed to offset the slightly heavier pull of Balloons.

Ratio is now 11 to 1—instead of former standard 9 to 1.

And that isn't all!

Ball bearings in steering spindles (first introduced by Rickenbacker) reduce friction to the last degree.

Those other engineers who used to protest that this frictionless bearing was an unnecessary "nicety," now see the logic of Rickenbacker reasoning and concede by copying, the superiority of Rickenbacker engineering.

Springs—long—level under load—also are ideal in combination with these big Balloons.

A ride will be a revelation to you—you will enjoy an entirely new sensation in this Rickenbacker Six—floating on Balloons.

Who Was Caliban?

In Shakespeare's "Tempest" Caliban is a savage, deformed slave—half beast, half man—in the service of Prospero, the magician. He was the offspring of Sycorax, a foul hag banished from Argier (or Algiers) to the enchanted island, afterwards inhabited by Prospero. The word Caliban is sometimes used to denote anything new or strange. The allusion is, of course, to Caliban, in the Tempest, a character in which Shakespeare has blended qualities both hideous and repulsive.

Pink Sunrise and Sunset

The reason that sunrise and sunset are pink is because the light, instead of coming straight down through a belt of air, strikes the air on a slant, traveling through more air, particularly close to the earth. As a result it meets many more specks of dust, smoke and other impurities in the air. These absorb, deflect and reflect the light rays and cause the multi-colored effect.

Remove Spots on Ceiling

There's greater security for you in these tested jar rubbers

IMPORTANT NOTES ON CANNING
— Martha Van Rensselaer
Head of the Department of Home Economics Cornell University

Vegetables, to be canned, should be packed in jars loosely enough for the heat to penetrate to all parts. Fill jars with boiling water to within one-fourth inch of top.

Pack fruit firmly in jars to within one-half inch of top. Pack pitted, stoned or cored fruits with cavities toward center of jar. Fill to overflowing with boiling syrup or water.

Select a cool storeroom—otherwise there is danger of loss by spoilage.

—From the new Butterick Cook Book

EVERY jar rubber must do two important things if it is to make an air-tight seal. It must first stretch and then it must "set."

It must stretch enough to pass easily over the neck of the jar. Too much stretch, however, robs the rubber of the ability to come back into place—to "set."

Only if the rubber will "set" firmly when it is once in place and closely grip the neck of the jar, can you be sure of a permanent, air-tight seal.

"U. S." Jar Rubbers already tested for you

"U. S." Jar Rubbers come to you tested for stretch and "set."

Back of every "U. S." Jar Rubber is the rich experience of the largest rubber organization in the world—the United States Rubber Company.

From its own plantations in Sumatra comes the high grade rubber used in "U. S." Jar Rubbers. In the company's great experimental laboratories, "U. S." Jar Rubbers are developed by experts and subjected to severe tests to insure the qualities necessary to meet successfully all the demands of modern canning methods.

"U. S." Jar Rubbers are made to give you the close, snug seal which will safely keep your precious fruit from spoiling—no matter what method of canning you use.

Believed The Smallpox Scare Is At An End

The smallpox scare is thought over in Donora. Conditions in that borough with respect to the disease remain as they were since the last reports were made. For 72 hours no new cases have developed and all physicians are of the opinion that the disease has run its course. The total number of persons infected since the outbreak remains at 11.

The prompt and efficient manner in which the Donora health officials under the leadership of Dr. W. D. Martin, county medical director, took charge of the work placed the contacts under quarantine and rounded up every person who had come in contact with the disease prevented a number of cases developing among these more than 100 persons now forcibly detained from mingling with the public in general. Within the next week or 10 days the smallpox [illegible] among Donora people, health authorities stated yesterday.

city schools, while, but two-fifths are spent on rural schools that have three-fifths of the pupils. 5,000,000 boys and girls are still out of school. Nothwithstanding our compulsory school laws,this is unfortunate for the child and a great menace to the state.

The State as well, as the Home and the church fully realizes the necessity of the moral training of the child, as well as its physical and intellectual, if she would develop the highest and best citizenship.

We all, Jews, Catholics, Protestants and the State fully agree on this.

But, there is much error in the minds of many, as to the best plan of securing the desired end.

That the State and Church should be separate there is no question. But, we do not believe, that it is necessary to banish all religious training from our schools and national life in order to make that separation complete.

The secular program, if carried out would make havoc of our public school curriculum. Not only would it exclude the Bible from our public schools but also our National songs, such as the "Star Spangled Banner," "America," etc., for they contain religious as well as patriotic sentiment.

You could not fully teach English, for the masterpieces contain much religious thought. Shakespeare, himself, makes 700 allusions to the Bible in his literature, Tennyson, 400 references. Charles Dudley Warner says, "The Bible is the one book that no intelligent person can afford to be ignorant of." Much less our youth, the future citizens of our country.

Again the doctor showed the absurdity of omitting the religious culture of the child, for , said he, "The "The whole child goes to school, not merely his body, or head, but body, head ad soul." If the soul culture of the child were neglected it would defeat the very purpose of the State through the school, which is to develop the whole child, so that he may fear and love God and do justly to his fellow man.

We dare not forget, said he, that ours is a Christian nation, so declared by the Supreme Court and has therefore moral interests as well as material ones. Said he, 43 States out of the 48 have already given legal sanction to the reading of the Bible in our schools. Why then, should a minority continue to interfere, when the State is doing just what she ought to do and must do if she would give us a full fledged, red-blooded, true-hearted, God fearing, law abiding, patriotic citizens, for this, the greatest country on the face of the earth.

The doctor said further that there is too much criticism, and too little cooperation. He said it reminded him of the Indian, in camp, before going across, when asked how he liked camp life, he said, "There was too much "salute" and not enough "shoot." So there is too much criticism, and too many suggestions in many of our schools and especially universities, that are contrary to law and the moral well-being of the student.

Here the doctor gave a very apt illustration, which not only drove home the point, but greatly amused and pleased the audience. He further said it was so strange that as soon as some people get a little education they begin to speculate—and doubt. The less they know, the more positive they are in their findings. Here he gave another illustration that caused great laughter and commendation. He then said that while many great achievements have been made by the aged, yet it is a fact of history that most of the great events in church and state, literature, art and science; in discovery and invention have been conceived and accomplished by young people. He then gave a long list of men and women in church and state who did their great and heroic deeds as young people.

Said he, Oh, this grand army of the young, what may they not accomplish, if they will carefully and faithfully use their talent and strength for God and humanity. Said he, You have entered the school to learn, now go forth to serve your country wherever duty calls.

Be courageous and of good spirit and God will give you victory. Do not become faithless or faint hearted. The road may be long, the hill steep, your path dark and rugged. You may be compelled to say "My life is a wearisome journey. I am sick of the dust and the heat. The rays of the sun beat upon me, the briars are wounding my feet. But the city to which I am journeying will more than my trials repay. All the toils of the road will seem nothing when I get to the end of the way."

Signing Was Unanimous

PLEA FOR AID IN THE NEAR EAST RELIEF

Imagine a graduating class of 3800 children-sturdy,manly boys well equipped for industry and business; strong, healthy girls ready for service in the home, office or factory.

Three years ago they were helpless orphans, many of them dying from hunger and exposure. he Near East Relief saved them from starvation and death. It transported more than 100,000 of them safely over thousands of miles of rough, undeveloped roads throughout Turkey and landed them in Greece, in Macedonia and in the Caucasus.

It is a matter of record the world over that in transfer of these orphans not a life was lost despite the dangers and hardships Near East Relief workers were forced to fight. Every one of these children was placed in Near East Relief orphanages where, through contributions from charitable Americans interested in saving child life, they were clothed and fed and educated.

Now, 3800 of them have just been graduated and going out into the world fully capable of self-support, another world's record for the Near East Relief—for this is the largest class that ever was graduated at one time anywhere in the world.

So well-trained are these children that even before they were ready to graduate from Near East Relief orphanages, requests for their services came from all parts of Europe and Asia—a tribute to the effectiveness of Near East Relief Training, physically, mentally and morally.

In recent months Near East Relief orphanages have supplied graduate orphans who have become mechanics in the shops of the Bagdad Railway in Syria, instructors in nursing for the Unnversity of Armenia; tractor experts for the Armenian School of Agriculture; teachers for the British Schools of Palestine; girls trained in domestic science, for Bulgaria; nurses for hospitals in Greece and skilled artisans for the trades of Aleppo.

In Near East Relief orphanages now, being trained in twenty-eight types of industries at ninety-three different locations under its immediate direction, are close to 60,000 orphan boys and girls, 32 per cent of them under fourteen years old. More than 2000 of the orphans are less than four years old. For all of these children there is a well-balanced program of study, work and play—the aim of the Near East Relief beig to develop every side of the child's life so as to fit these boys and girls to be not only good workers, able to compete for success with their fortunate competitors, but to embody in them the strong religious principles so necessary to the furtherance of Christianity in the old world.

Children now in the orphanages represent the very best of the life of the Near East. The weaklings died off. The strongest survived. They come from the strata from which leadership can best be developed. There are o idle orphans. All of them have some useful work to do. Everyone of them gets a common school education. There will be no illiterates among them. There are enough Near East Relief orphans to make a real impression on the life of the Near East.

"This work must go on—there can be no stop now," explained G. E. Silloway, regional director of the Near East Relief for Pennsylvania. "These orphans have all been restored to rosy health. If they had been permitted to die when they were numb with suffering, before we took them into the orphanages, it would not have been so terrible as it would be if we turned them out now.

"We have reached the crisis. There must be a continued support of these orphans if Near East Relief is to continue this wonderful work of salvaging human life. It was entirely through the generosity of America—especially Pennsylvania—that Near East Relief was able to snatch these boys and girls from death. It will be through this same generosity the salvage work will continue. We are confident Pennsylvania will not permit any interference with this wonderful work its people started so generously and has continued until now"

"But unless we get help quickly" added Mr. Silloway, some of our orphanages must open their doors and turn boys and girls out again into the streets to face starvation, exposure and possible death. In Syria alone there are 500 orphans whom no one is helping. We cannot take them in. Our orphanages are crowded. Must some of these little ones now being cared for and educated be made to join that 5000 on the outside when your help now can save them and insure their development into worthwhile Christian men and women "

Five dollars a month sent to Drexel & Company, treasurer of the Near East Relief, Broad and Locust Streets, Philadelphia, will keep one of these children in the orphanages.

America's First Post Office

Delvers into historic lore have ascertained that America's first post office was established in the house of Richard Fairbanks, in what is now Boston, on November 5, 1639, but strangely enough, this first post office, although not called by that name, was for the reception and distribution of foreign mail. It was not called a post office until 1760, when the man in charge was classically called "postmaster."
